Chicago Market.

CHICAGO, June 26.—Messrs. Baldwin & Farnum telegraph to C. W. Branch & Co. a + follows: A steady absorption of all offerings by one of large local operators was the principal cause of the advance in wheat, although some reports that there was an enquiry here for cash wheat and fairly large clearances at the seaboard lent their aid to the bulls and helped the market. The close is firm with the full advance held, market is nervous, but the local crowd appear willing to take the buying side on breaks, although to-day we think the market had to be bought steadily or, a break would result and consequently it is not as healthy a close as we should like to have seen. After the regular closing the market sold off '4c. Chicago Market.

A Romantic Story.

A correspondent of the London News from Bucharest, writes that society in that place bas been much moved by the tragic incident connected with a double suicide that has just taken place. A daughter of an exminister married to a doctor in Moldavia, sought and obtained a divorce. She and an officer in the artillery, Captain G — had been gone through, Captain G — had been gone through, Captain G — had been gone through, Captain G — sought and obtained the King's consent to his marriage with Madame N — The wedding day was fixed and all seemed bright and promising, when Bucharest was A Romantic Story.

Curious Wedding Gifis.

Accoding to the Scotsman, the wedding gifts which the Sunderland excursion party brought with them on their abortive expedition to St. Kilda, and which were left at Oban on their return there, must have been shipped on board the Clausman for return to Sunderland. Twenty-eight packages in all were shipped, says the Scotsman; "The ultimate destination of the American organ and the pork pie is still undecided, and they remain at Oban mentime, though it is not improbable that the pork pie may soon decide the matter for itself. One or two other articles, for the return of which it was evidently not thought worth while to incurt the expense of carriage, were also left. A rather curious incident occurred while the presents were lying in the steamer shed at Oban. Three yeong rats, which were possibly exploring for the pork pie, got by some mischance into the hamper containing the bridal bouquet, and set themselves to have a good time, but the unusual fire had evidently disagreed with tem, for when the hamper was removed from the shed the three young rats were found dead, prestling in the bouquet."

The Eduburg scotsman phronicles an annusing incident, which is reported to have occurred a short time ago at Freiburg, in Germany. Two ladies were standing in front of a shop window examining the waves exhibited for sale, when the owner of the establishment, impatient at their not entering his premises, told them sharply that they had been there long enough, and requested them to move on. The ladies walked away without a word of remonstrance. Half an hour later a footman in court livery called at the shop and asked the ill-mannered trade-man, on behalf of the Hereditary Grand Duchess of Baden, how much she owed him for having looked in at his shop window. The man's feelings on receiving the messaga can be more easily imagined than described. An Abushed Sho, keeper

Weiselev's 57th Birthday.

General Lord Wolseley completed his fifty-seventh year on Wednesday, and, as at present arranged, will spend his next birthday in India as commander-in-chief. The office is the best paid military post in the English or any other service. Commenting on the above, the London Times remarks that "Lord Wolseley is the most successful soldier of the century. He must now exult that in early manhood he quitted the browary to bear a sword in his country's service." Welseley's 57th Birthday.
